ORIGINAL ESSAY: (500-750 words)

Please Limit Essay to Two Pages and Include Essay with Application

Essay Prompt:

As Rear Admiral E. Baxter Billingsley stated in his book, "The Emmons Saga," the men of the USS Emmons "represented the best of America's young manhood." With the passing of Grover T. McMichael, the last known surviving member of the USS Emmons crew, one has to ask what characteristics enabled these young men - many as young as 18 years old or in the case of Joseph E. Woodnick, Jr., then only 15 years old - to step up as untested raw recruits and defeat a professionally trained and battle-hardened enemy in both the Atlantic and Pacific Theaters of WWII.

Define those characteristics and what made these young men so unique that they would forever be defined in the words of columnist Tom Brokaw as "America's Greatest Generation."

Despite the inspiration these role models of that generation provided, it is worthy of note that military recruitment quotas in all four branches of the military are at an all-time low. Why is it important, especially in this day and age, that the legacy of the sacrifice and dedication of these brave, heroic men not be lost with the passage of time?

Finally, it is said that "A sailor doesn't die his final death until his name is spoken for the last time." Likewise General Douglas McArthur said, "Old soldiers never die - they just fade away." What can you do personally as a member of the Emmons family to ensure that the Emmons legacy and the exploits of the Emmons crew are never spoken for the last time and allowed to fade away?

Essay Judging Criteria

Evaluation of essays will be performed by the USS Emmons Legacy Committee led by the treasurer of the USS Emmons Association. It shall be the responsibility of the Emmons Association treasurer to screen all documents submitted by applicants and verify their eligibility. The treasurer in turn shall screen all essays to the extent that the identity of each essay's author remains anonymous, and subsequently forward the essays to the other members for unbiased evaluation and ranking.

In the event a relative of a Legacy Committee member submits an application, the treasurer will remove that member of the committee from participation in the scholarship selection process and replace that member with a qualified USS Emmons Association member. Also, committee members are prohibited from providing guidance or any other assistance with regard to the essay, other than that already contained herein. The Legacy Committee will judge essays using the rubric on the following page, while considering:

- Originality. Treatment of the theme should show imagination and human interest, and
- Content. Clearly express your ideas in an organized manner; fully develop your theme and use transitions to move from one idea to another.

In addition to the two $2500 awards, a $500 honorable mention award may be granted if at least 5 qualifying applications are received. A second $500 honorable mention award may be granted if at least 7 qualifying applications are received. Honorable mention recipients must score at least an average of 3 on the judging criteria, excluding Mechanics, in the scoring rubric on the following page.

SCORING RUBRIC

A rubric used by the judges in evaluating the essays is provided below. Each criterion is judged based on a point value of 4 (best) to 0 (worst), except for Mechanics, which has a point value of 2 (best) to 0 (worst). The essay prompt is provided on page 3.
